BARNARD COLLEGE

3009 Broadway

New York, NY 10027

Mortarboard 1991 is a student-funded publication printed © 1991 Josten's Publishing Company, State College, P.A. Mortarboard is run by students and advised by the Office of College Activities. A special thank you goes to our advisors Chris Koutsovitis and Karen Petrie, our sales representative Aster Laleman, our photographer Ed Thornton, Student Government Association, our editor-in-chief Sharon Koplon, and to the members of the Mortarboard staff.

In 1889, Barnard College was established holding its first classes for women seeking a high degree of education. An integral part of Barnard's academic establishment was its faculty, which most students thought of, "in terms of personal inspiration, awakening, encouragement". It consisted of seven professors from the Columbia staff. Barnard didn't have its own faculty, considering that all of its professors had to teach at Columbia. This remained a fact until Emily L. Gregory was hired as Barnard's first full-time faculty member, most appropriately a woman. A botanist, Gregory helped to expand Barnard's curriculum into the sciences, where it had originally taught only the Classics, Mathematics, Modern Languages and English. As Barnard evolved into an independent institution so did its faculty to meet the needs of the ever expanding student body. Now, at the close of the 1990 there are 163 full-time faculty members, which one student claims: "...", keeping with the traditions of their predecessors.

Office of the President

To the Members of the Class of 1991:

As I write to you, it is November of your senior year, and I do not -- and cannot -- know how today's fast-moving events will play out even as soon as your graduation day. I do know though, that you will be as well-prepared for that world as anyone can be. Your College has never been insulated from reality, and your faculty and your classmates have given you the understanding and the will that you will need.

Your class did not have the bonding experience of a first year in the quad, but you have been instrumental in helping Barnard to become a residential college. And you have joined in the community discussions that will shape our curriculum and our campus life as we go forward. The College has changed as you have changed, and I believe that we have all gained in knowledge and compassion. Certainly, the world has never been in more need of women like you than it is today.

You were here as we celebrated and began our second century and you will take part in shaping and leading us in a second hundred years of leadership and accomplishment. Your spirit and your commitment will take you wherever you want to go, and however far that is, we hope that you will continue to feel and be part of the College. You have our confidence and our affection and our wishes for much happiness personally and professionally.

With warmest wishes,

Sincerely,

Ellen V. Futter

Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs
(212) 854-2024

Dear Class of 1991,

Almost four years ago, I recited:

You are the Class of '91:
A singular phenomenon,
Full of fight and full of fun,
A classy class--a paragon!

Nobly bearing noise and dust,
For you need beds, so build we must;
Above the rubble, you will rise
Like a phoenix to the skies!

Yes, you'll strongly forge ahead,
We know that you will knock 'em dead!
Yes, you'll surely all excel,
We know that you will give 'em hell!

From East to West, from pole to pole
A better class we couldn't enroll;
In four years, when you graduate,
The College may deteriorate!

And now you are graduating--those of you who were here in 1987 and those who have joined the class since--graduating from a thriving College that will bask in your accomplishments and welcome you back whenever you return. Come back to Barnard soon and come back often.

Affectionately,

The Clubs and Associations that a college offers reflects the makeup and ideas of it's campus. As the face of Barnard College and the rest of the world have changed, the organizations that have received student support changed as well. Barnard clubs have always ranged from campus interests and entertainment to the broader political sphere—although a Barnard Suffrage Club is no longer a political necessity, the students continue to form political groups which confront contemporary issues; the Barnard and Columbia Students for Choice and the Columbia/Barnard Coalition for Life have arisen to defend the political rights of women. Many of the theatrical, musical and dance clubs, such as the Gilbert & Sullivan Society, Black Theatre and Performing Arts, Barnard/Columbia Gospel Choir, and Orchesis, have forerunners in Wigs and Cues, founded 1913, the Barnard Chorus, founded 1897, and the Barnard Dance Class, founded 1897. Barnard has always attempted to accomodate the views of its students and to offer them an outlet in which to express their interests, concerns, and talents. As the makeup of Barnard has changed the college has adapted to fit the new needs and demands.

Clubs And Activities

Student Government Association

The Barnard Student Government Association (SGA) forms the main link between the college administration and the students. SGA is the umbrella organization that oversees all student activities and funds approximately 100 clubs in conjunction with Columbia College. Rep Council, the student government's legislative body, deals with campus issues and provides a forum for students' voices. SGA sponsors two annual major campus-wide events: Winterfest, a celebration of women in the arts featuring panels, speakers, and social events, and Springfest, a celebration of spring.

President: Jennifer Cowan
Vice President of Student Government: Sara Bucholtz
Vice President of Student Activities: Leigh Fairchild
Treasurer: Christina Geigel
Officer of the Board: Maria Vallejo

Rep Council

Rep Council is the legislative body of the Student Government Association (SGA) and a forum for the discussion of campus issues. Its members, elected annually by the student body, have the power to approve the SGA budget and pass resolutions. The Council, chaired by the Vice President for Student Government who votes only in the case of a tie, comprises: the SGA President, Vice President for Student Activities, Treasurer, and Officer of the Board; the Student Services Liaison, who represents all the tripartate committees; the CC, SEAS, & GS Liaisons; 4 class presidents; 3 Representatives-at-Large; 2 student representatives to the Board of Trustees; and one senator. Rep Council meets bi-weekly at which time each member is required to report on her/his activities and may raise issues for discussion.

Sara Bucholtz, SGA Vice President of Student Government, Council Chair
 Jennifer Cowan, SGA President
 Leigh Fairchild, SGA Vice President of Student Activities
 Christina Geigel, Treasurer
 Maria Vallejo, SGA Officer of the Board
 Sylvia Polk, Representative to the Board of Trustees
 Liz Nanni, Representative to the Board of Trustees
 Julie Werner, Senator
 Julie Owen, Student Services Liaison
 Janet Alperstein, Representative-at-Large Jennifer Bullock, Representative-at-Large Jen McQuade, Representative-at-Large
 Day Levine, Liaison to Columbia College Student Council
 Aimee Saginaw, Liaison to SEAS Student Council

 Robyn Bass, President, Class of 1992
 Leilynn Lau, President, Class of 1993
 Inessa Onefater, President, Class of 1994

Amnesty International

Amnesty International is an independent, impartial movement which plays a specific role in the worldwide protection of human rights, focusing its activities on prisoners of conscience (people detained for their beliefs, race, sex, language, religion, or ethnic origin, who have neither used nor advocated violence). Barnard-Columbia Amnesty International focuses on letter-writing but also sponsors speakers, movies and other events.

Speakers: Malisa Parangi

Asian Students Union

The Asian Students Union is proud to be known as the largest organization on campus with a membership of over 450 members. Although the ASU's primary function is to serve the interests of the Asian-American students on campus, it also seeks to raise the awareness of the rest of the Columbia community about Asian issues, culture and history. This year, the theme of ASU is "Integration," hoping to involve all students in our monthly events, ranging from forums and lectures to social and cultural events.

Barnard President: Nancy Chua
Columbia President: Sang Y. Kim
Treasurer: Anna Ham
Secretary: Angela E. Okajima

Asian Women's Coalition

Asian Women's Coalition holds rap sessions once a week and publishes Dialogue About Asian Women's News. We are a radical organization that fights against oppressions that face Asian women in the world today. Through rap sessions, we try to raise consciousness about feminist and anti-racist issues. AWC shows films, holds workshops, sponsors field trips, and invites speakers ranging from artists to political activists to educate the Columbia and Barnard community. At the same time, AWC tries to develop a support network between Asian and Asian-American women undergraduates.

DAAWN is published once a year. The magazine is composed of political essays, interviews of Asian women, art, poem, fiction, non-fiction, and any other creative outputs. The magazine focuses on the issues that face Asian and Asian-American women. It is an outlet for us to be creative in a society where we are constantly assaulted by racist and sexist discriminations and stereotypes.

President: Han-Na Choi
Vice-President: Ellen Chu
Treasurer: Amy Sueyoshi
Editor-in-Chief: Ellen Chu

Bacchantae

The Bacchantae is a female a cappella singing group dedicated to providing groovin' tunes for the Columbia University community. We can be seen (or heard) performing at a wide variety of events such as Orientation, Homecoming, reunions, informal gatherings, and most importantly, our end of the semester Jamboree. When we're not singing at Columbia, we like to make roadtrips to "jam" with other college groups.

Directors: Joy Drachman, Katie McGonigal

Barnard And Columbia Students For Choice

Barnard and Columbia Students for Choice is committed to educating the Barnard and Columbia community on issues of reproductive freedom. We believe that reproductive rights are inextricably linked to equal rights for women and men in economic, political and social spheres. Thus, we support equal pay for comparable work, the passage of the ERA, freedom from stereotyped gender roles, freedom for all people to determine their own sexuality and end to all violence against women.

Finance Chair: Rema Chatterjee
Publicity Chair: Eva Landeo-Perez
Tabling Chair: Maud Maron
Action Co-Chair: Stephanie Marks, Anne Stott
Education Co-chair: Cindy Suchomel, Sarita Varma

Barnard Bulletin

The Barnard Bulletin is Barnard's weekly newsmagazine. Its staff covers Barnard campus life as a woman's college featuring sections on campus news, commentary, arts, women's issues, a weekly cover story, and listing of campus events.

Editors-in-Chief: Renana Meyers, Aimee Wielechowski
 News Editors: Amanda Brooks, Gretchen Crary, Geraldine Rowe, Ali Stone

Barnard College Musical Theatre

BCMT puts on a full scale musical production each semester. The Fall 1990 production of "Into the Woods" marks the group's eleventh and most successful production yet.

President: Michelle Foxman
Vice-President: John Kollar
Treasurer: Tracey Levy
Secretary: Maihgan Kavanagh

Barnard Organization Of Black Women (BOBW)

The goal of BOBW, an organization consisting primarily of Black women, is to raise the collective consciousness of women of African descent throughout the Columbia University campus. BOBW seeks to create culturally enriching and uplifting programs. BOBW is a support group to its members, providing an outlet for discussion and social interaction.

Campus Crusade

There can be no bond stronger between people than the bond of Christian fellowship. Campus Crusade for Christ is a group of Christians sharing their faith and joy through the worship of God. Students meet to share the word and form lasting friendships with their syblings in Christ. They turn to the world to share the word, out of true concern that the Bible teaches. It's not hard, because for us, Christianity is more than just a religion; it's a way of life.

CEDA Debate

The CEDA Debate team is an organization dedicated to the quest for truth through argumentation. The team travels extensively, competing against some of the finest intercollegiate institutions in the country.

Columbia/Barnard Coalition For Life

Columbia/Barnard Coalition for Life is a group of students who feel that abortion is the taking of an innocent child's life. The Coalition sponsors both educational lectures for students and service projects to help women and children in need.

President: Jennifer Alessi
Vice-President: David Soares
Secretary: David Linton

Economics Society

The Economics Society works to enhance the Economics department and demonstrates how Economics is applied outside of the classroom. The society holds career panels, "brown-bag lunches" with the professors, lectures, and publishes a newsletter.

President: Sharon Koplon
Vice President: Jennifer McQuade
Treasurer: Robyn Smith
Secretary: Leilynne Lau

Equestrian Team

The Barnard/Columbia Equestrian Team is a Barnard-based sports club aiming for varsity team status. Barnard and Columbia women with diverse riding experience train to compete within the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association. In addition, non-competitive riding is occasionally organized.

First-Year Student Government

As the leaders of the first-year class, our main goals have been to instill school spirit and to promote class unity. In order to attain this unity, we sponsored many class activities, including a first-year dinner, study breaks, and an ice-skating trip.

President: Inessa Oneater
Vice President: Joanne Garce
Treasurer: Corrie Spiegel
Secretary: Megan Weller

Gilbert & Sullivan Society

The Barnard Gilbert & Sullivan Society is the oldest theatre group on campus; chartered in 1911, we maintain a tradition of quality productions. Each semester, a fully staged and costumed Gilbert & Sullivan operetta is presented with a complete orchestra. This year, we celebrate our 80th birthday with The Yeomen of the Guard, numerous concerts, and more - oh, rapture!

President: Yael Lewin
Vice President: Daniela Amini

Remember . . .

- ... When we had mealcards
- ... When the door in the tunnel between Barnard Hall and Centennial Hall was open
- ... When there was no Quad; only BHR existed
- ... When the addition to the Quad was called New Hall, then Centennial Hall (and now Sulzberger Hall!)
- ... When "Freshmen" wasn't a dirty word
- ... When Paulette (in the Quad office) was Claudette
- ... When Ollie's was Rickie's and Rickie's was Chock Full of Nuts
- ... When UFM had reasonable prices (When?!!)
- ... When Fumald Grocery was around
- ... When Fumald Grocery was safe
- ... When Columbia finally won a football game!
- ... When students stood on line all night at McIntosh in order to sign up for Urban New York at 8:00 AM

And Now Here's To Your Futures

Under a unique agreement made by the colleges and approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, women at Barnard College and the undergraduate division of Columbia University compete together as members of University-wide athletic teams.

The arrangement, called a consortium under NCAA rules, is one of just three in the nation and the only one on a Division I level. It provides the opportunity for women students enrolled at the separate colleges to compete within one athletic program drawing on the resources of all the colleges and severing student-athletes throughout the University.

Established in 1983, the consortium was designed to coincide with the admission of women to Columbia College. It was built upon an already established women's athletic program at Barnard College; by developing and expanding that program, the University seeks to provide all undergraduate women with the finest competitive opportunities. Both Barnard and Columbia believe that the consortium creates an athletic program within the Ivy League far stronger than either institution could offer individually. —

Columbia Women's Basketball

This years Columbia Women's Basketball team is optimistic about this years season; "We are ready to break into the top part of the Ivy League," says head coach Nancy Kalafus. Three of this years starters are returning seniors who provide court wide support, talent and leadership. The team also has a younger base which will provide leadership and experience in the future. The team and coach are very excited about the prospects for success this year.

Columbia Women's Crew

In only its fifth year as a Varsity sport, Columbia Women's Crew (comprised of both Barnard and Columbia athletes) ranks among the nation's most competitive programs. Last year it entered the E.A.R.C. league and competed for the first time in the Eastern Sprints, the championship regatta held in New Preston, CT. The Varsity boat placed 11th out of 18 crews, an impressive result for only its first year in the league. This fall the JV boat won a silver medal at the first annual Challenge of the Hudson regatta in Peekskill, NY. At the Seven Sisters Invitational Regatta the Varsity won its event, and with strong finishes from the JV and Novice boats Columbia won the points trophy. All crews look forward to a challenging Spring racing season, and to carrying on a tradition of excellence.

Columbia Women's Volleyball

This years Columbia Women's Volleyball has nine returning players as well five new members; of those returning three are seniors, Cathy Chin-Chance and Jessica Stuart from Barnard. It is a relatively young team with only one junior transfer student and the three returning seniors. Coach Pegg Schultz has transformed the Columbia Volleyball in her three years as coach. In recent years she has lead her team to victories over other Ivy League schools as well as winning the Seven Sisters Tournament in 1990. The team has strong leaders in the seniors and strong support from the sophomores on the team. The first year students which have been recruited by Coach Schultz assure an exciting future for Columbia Women's Volleyball.

Women's Soccer Team

The Columbia Women's Soccer Team finished the 1990 season with a 3-10-1 record. After a successful 1989 season the Lions expected to perform better, however, with only three starting upperclassmen the Lions could not overcome their youth and inexperience. As a result the season proved to be one filled with frustration and disappointment.

The highlight of the season was an end of the season, thrilling, 2-1 loss to national powerhouse Brown University. The game demonstrated that the young Lion squad had finally matured and become a cohesive unit. Next year the Lions will only be losing two seniors- co-captain Susan Kerr, and Annie Lipton- so with another successful recruiting year the future of Lions' soccer looks bright.

Women's Tennis

Lion pride is back on the Columbia women's tennis team. Sparked by new head coach, Howard Endelman, the Lions enjoyed both a fun and successful semester.

In tournament play, the Lions won the New York State tennis championships in Albany. Senior Lise Abrams won the singles title, and Senior Radhi Majmudan and Junior Jeanette Kizer won the doubles title. In dual match play, it took a real team effort to defeat strong a Temple team. As darkness fell on Baker Field, the match was deadlocked at 4-4. As teammates Indira Smith, Pia Clemente, Mona Majmedor, Jackie Johnston, and Lori Tiatorio, cheered her on, Senior Lauren Solomon clinched the 5-4 victory with a 3-set win.

The team hopes to keep their success and spirit alive when they play their Ivy League opponents in the spring.

With perhaps two exceptions, every single speech I have heard at Barnard, whether delivered by the Dean, President, or member of faculty, begins the same way: "While I was trying to decide what to write for this speech a (colleague, past student, graduating student, friend) dropped by (unexpectedly). I asked (him/her) 'What does Barnard mean to you?' And (he/she) replied . . ."

I always did marvel at the exceptional timing of each colleague, past student, graduating student, or friend. And I have always hesitated to sign up for a public speaking course at Barnard, fearing I'd never be able to complete my homework until one of the aforementioned happened to stop by.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR...

Mortarboard '91 has portrayed Barnard as it once was and as it exists today. Changes are always under way, including new professors, new buildings, and new ideas. The memories of yesterday must not be forgotten. Those very memories have brought us where we are today. Our own experiences from the moment we entered Barnard, have been used as well to help us grow and reach our goals. We must resolve to apply our "now" to the challenges that we face to make our world a better place in which to live with peace and freedom for all. Be assured that today's "now" will be tomorrow's yesterday and those that follow us through the halls of Barnard will have our experiences and contributions to serve as their beacon.

-Sharon Koplon

To all the Allied soldiers fighting for peace,

To the men and women who have left their homes and families,
and risk their lives every day,

To the journalists, news reporters, and camera crews who are stationed in the midst of War,

We Dedicate This Yearbook To You
